

FINAL MEETING NOTICE
FOOD, DRUG, AND COSMETIC PACKAGING MATERIALS COMMITTEE

International Symposium on Worldwide Regulation of Food Packaging

On June 11 - 12, 2009, the SPI Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Packaging Materials Committee is offering its 9th Biennial International Symposium that brings together experts from government and industry around the world to discuss regulatory obstacles to global marketing of food packaging materials and efforts to overcome those obstacles. Global markets continue to become more interconnected, and many in the packaging industry now see it as essential to have products that can be used in most, if not all, countries. The morning session on June 11th will feature international experts who will address current regulatory considerations in Europe, South America, Canada and the United States. The afternoon will include a special session on international regulations and guidelines for handling post-consumer packaging. Invited representatives will examine waste and recycling initiatives around the world and their implications for the global food packaging supply chain. Friday, June 12th will focus on regulatory issues in Asia-Pacific countries. We will be joined by speakers from China, India, Japan and Thailand.

Founded in 1937, The Society of the Plastics Industry, Inc. (SPI) is the trade association representing one of the largest manufacturing industries in the United States. SPI's members represent the entire plastics industry supply chain, including processors, machinery and equipment manufacturers and raw materials suppliers. The U.S. plastics industry is the 3rd largest manufacturing industry in the U.S., employs 1.1 million workers and provides more than $374 billion annual shipments. The SPI Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Packaging Materials Committee (FDCPMC) is a public policy committee made up of company representatives from all segments of the plastics industry. Members are materials suppliers, color and additive suppliers and compounders, formulators, producers and users of finished packaging for food, drugs and cosmetics, and other plastic food contact applications. Since 1957, the Committee has been active in fostering the use of sound science and good public policy in the regulation of food, drug and cosmetic packaging and other plastic food contact applications. We hold semi-annual meetings to provide a forum for the discussion of relevant global issues, and to provide a network for the dissemination of regulatory information.

For your planning purposes, meetings currently scheduled are listed as follows:

Wednesday, June 10th

SPI Committee Business Meeting - 1:30 to 5:00pm

Thursday, June 11th

Morning - The Regulatory Climate in the Americas and Europe

Afternoon - International Regulations and Guidelines for Handling Post-Consumer Packaging

Reception - 6:00 to 8:00 pm

Friday, June 12th
